

Lamons and Andronaco Sign Manufacturing Agreement to Expand Hose Offerings and Services

Offering includes Andronaco's PureFlex® hose portfolio with fluoropolymer-lined hoses and other fluid sealing products for corrosive environments

HOUSTON, OCTOBER 9, 2024 /PRNewswire/ -- Lamons®, a global leader in safety sealing and attachment solutions, announced a new collaboration with Andronaco Industries, a leading designer and manufacturer of corrosion-resistant flow control and fluid handling solutions for the most challenging applications. This collaboration allows Lamons and Andronaco the ability to expand its reach to numerous regions, be closer to customers, and facilitate faster delivery times.

"We are excited to combine Andronaco Industries' technical, manufacturing, and market expertise in hoses, expansion joints, and other fluid sealing accessories for highly corrosive applications with Lamons' experience, customer focus, and strong network of branches, serving the safety sealing industry," said Ralph Mallozzi, President and CEO, Andronaco Industries. "Our partnership with Lamons will combine our collective years of experience and know-how to provide customers superior products, faster response times, and greater value to their operations."

Lamons will now include in its list of offerings the PureFlex hose portfolio of high-performance fluoropolymer-lined hoses for numerous industries which encompasses specific hose brands such as Proflex™, Multiflex™, UltraFlex™, FlexChem®, and Nexus™ along with BlueLine™ expansion joints and TASK-LINE® gaskets, line blockers, and grounding paddles. Lamons is also adding ChemTite® Ethylene™ branded products such as Flexijoint® expansion joints to provide a comprehensive set of expansion joint options.
